How risky is it?

The value of the fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility".

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Caldwell Investment Management Ltd. has rated this fund's risk as low to medium. This rating is based on how much the fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the fund's returns, please see the Risk section of the fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

How has the fund performed?

This section tells you how the Series F units of the fund have performed in the past three years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how the Series F units of the fund performed in the past three years. The fund has not dropped in value in the past three years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst 3-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for Series F units of the fund in a 3-month period over the past three years. The best and worst 3-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	3 months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best Return	6.39%	September 30, 2016	Your investment would rise to $1,064.
Worst Return	-6.13%	August 31, 2017	Your investment would drop to $939.

Average Return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F units of the fund since the date the Series was created now has $1,217. This works out to an annual compounded return of 5.03%.

Who is this fund for?

Investors who:

- have a long term investment time horizon
- want the stability and income of Canadian government bonds combined with the growth potential of senior Canadian and American corporations

Don't buy this fund if you have a short term investment time horizon of less than 3 years

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much income tax you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether or not you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a Registered Retirement Savings Plan or a Tax-Free Savings Account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F units of the fund.

The fees and expenses – including commissions – can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable to you at a lower cost. This fund has other series of units. The fees and expenses for each series of units of the fund are different. Ask about other series of units of the fund that may be suitable for you.

1. Sales charges

No sales charges apply to Series F units of the fund.

2. Fund Expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the fund's returns.
